

Changes to learning disability community support in Camden

Presented by Fung-Yee Lee
Commissioning Manager

Learning disability community support in Camden is changing

From 1 October 2025

The new service has 2 areas

- North Camden
- and South Camden

The new community support providers are

- Centre 404 in North Camden

- and LDN (Learning Disability Network) in South Camden

People shared what matters most to them about community support

- workers who know how to support you
- being in control and doing more for yourself, with help when you need it
- making friends and feeling less lonely
- getting support to eat well and stay active
- help for young people aged 14 to 17 as they move into adulthood

The new service will

- help you do as much as you can on your own
- support you in a way that respects your culture
- help you make friends and enjoy activities together
- support you to make healthy choices and stay active
- be there for young people aged 14 to 17 as they move into adulthood

The new service has 3 stages

- adults aged 18 and over whose support will be moving to LDN
- adults aged 18 and over whose support will stay with Centre 404
- a new service for young people aged 14 and over from 1 April 2026

Helping adults move to the new service

If your support is moving to LDN, someone from CLDS will chat with you about what you need and any changes

If your support stays with Centre 404, CLDS will meet you before December to make sure everything still works for you

We want to finish all CLDS reviews by 1 January 2026

Getting a new service ready for young people aged 14 to 17

The service will help young people move into adulthood more smoothly

In January 2026, your CYPDS worker will explain the new service to your child at a short breaks review

There will be a meet and greet event in February or March to tell you all about the service

The new service will start on 1 April

You do not need to do anything right now

If you have any questions, you can contact your CLDS or CYPDS worker
